LoCorr Long/Short Commodities Strategy Fund (Class I) wins Lipper Award for Fourth Straight Year

Minneapolis, (March 2019) – LoCorr Funds is pleased to announce that their LoCorr Long/Short Commodities Strategy Fund (LCSIX) has won the 2019 Lipper Fund Award from Refinitiv in the best Commodities General fund category over a five-year period ended 11/30/18, among 24 funds based on historical risk-adjusted returns. The Fund was recognized by the Lipper Fund Awards program for outperforming peers. This is the fourth straight year the Fund has taken the category's top spot.

LoCorr Long/Short Commodities Strategy Fund invests in globally diversified long and short commodities futures that have the potential to provide profit in up and down markets and additional diversification to portfolios. The Fund has demonstrated low to near zero correlation to traditional markets.

The Lipper Fund Awards have honored funds and fund management firms that have excelled in providing consistently strong risk-adjusted performance relative to their peers. Renowned fund data and proprietary methodology is the foundation of the Award qualification. For more information, please visit <https://lipperfundawards.com>.

"We are very honored that the Long/Short Commodity Fund was acknowledged by Lipper this year," said Kevin Kinzie, CEO of LoCorr Funds. "These awards are a testament to the power of our model, which is committed to partnering with high quality investment managers that have proven experience delivering distinct, innovative investment solutions with low correlation to traditional asset classes."

Read it carefully before investing.

Mutual fund investing involves risk. Principal loss is possible. The Fund is non-diversified, meaning it may concentrate its assets in fewer individual holdings than a diversified fund. Therefore, the Fund is more exposed to an individual investment's volatility than a diversified fund. The Fund invests in foreign investments and foreign currencies which involve greater volatility and political, economic and currency risks and differences in accounting methods. The Fund may make short sales of securities, which involves the risk that losses may exceed the original amount invested. Investing in commodities may subject the Fund to greater risks and volatility as commodity prices may be influenced by a variety of factors including unfavorable weather, environmental factors, and changes in government regulations. The Fund may invest in derivative securities, which derive their performance from the performance of an underlying asset, index, interest rate or currency exchange rate. Derivatives can be volatile and involve various types and degrees of risks, and, depending upon the characteristics of a particular derivative, suddenly can become illiquid. Derivative contracts ordinarily have leverage inherent in their terms which can magnify the Fund's potential for gains or losses through increased long and short position exposure. The Fund may access derivatives via a swap agreement. A risk of a swap agreement is the risk that the counterparty to the agreement will default on its obligation to pay the Fund. Investments in debt securities typically decrease in value when interest rates rise. This risk is usually greater for longer-term debt securities. Investments in Asset Backed, Mortgage Backed, and Collateralized Mortgage Backed Securities include additional risks that investors should be aware of such as credit risk, prepayment risk, possible illiquidity and default, as well as increased susceptibility to adverse economic developments.

Past performance is not indicative of future results. Correlation measures how much the returns of two investments move together over time.
Diversification does not assure a profit nor protect against loss in a declining market.

The Lipper Fund Awards are based on the Lipper Leader for Consistent Return rating, which is a risk-adjusted performance measure calculated over 36, 60 and 120 months. The fund with the highest Lipper Leader for Consistent Return (Effective Return) value in each eligible classification wins the Lipper Fund Award. For more information, see lipperfundawards.com.
